THE MAN WHO WILL NOT

begin to SAVE when his first child is born is exceptiona!. We could tell you about one young man who figured out, when his first baby errived, that he could afford to lay aside one dollar a week for

The one dollar a week became the baby's wages, and they were paid regularly. At the end of ten weeks the proud father opened a savings account in the baby's name, and deposited the $10,00 he

That baby boy is five years old now. He has received his weekly wages when his father got his pay every week. To-day his little bank account amounts to $282.00.

If the father had hoarded his savings for the youngster for five years-hidden the money away instead of putting it in this bankthe boy would now have only $260.00. The difference is merely the interest on his deposit of $1.00 a week.

This little lad's father is so well pleased with the scheme that he says he is going to keep right on depositing one dollar a week until the boy is old enough to go to college; when he will use the fund to pay for his college training.

If that boy enters college when he is eighteen how much money will he have then! YOU can figure that one dollar a week for eighteen years will total $936.00. But that i without interest. This bank pays three per cent. interest and compounds it twice a year. Thus you see the lad's bank account here would amount to just about $1,200,00 And all only on one dollar a week! Have YOU started a savings account for YOUR boy? One dollar is enough to start such an account in THIS BANK. One today is worth a hundred tomorrows.
